THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER

It was a cool autumn morning .Some ants were working hard. They were storing grain in their anthill. A grasshopper asked them, 'What are you doing?' The ants replied, "We are storing grains for the winter. We are working hard now so that we have enough to eat later."

The grasshopper watched them work. He wondered that he would eat as he hadn't stored any food. The grasshopper never worked hard. He only enjoyed himself all day. The grasshopper told the ants, 'Please save some grains for me too.' The ant asked, "Where is your own store of food?" To this the grasshopper replied, "I spent the summer singing and dancing. The Sun was so golden and the air was so sweet that I did not feel like working. "The ant then questioned the grasshopper, "Did you not think about the cold months ahead?" The grasshopper replied, "I never think about tomorrow." The ant was surprised and said, "Everybody knows that it is too cold to look for food in winter and you should have stored some food while you could."

The ant tried to warn the grasshopper. However, the grasshopper did not care. One day when he was lazing around under the tree he cried aloud yawning, "I'll start working after some time" The ant saw him and said, "Well, then you will starve in the winter." A few days later, it started snowing heavily.

The ants were discussing in their anthill. One ant said, "Good that we stored enough grains to last us all winter." Another ant replied happily, "Now we can stay warm in our hills and eat as much as we need."
