LESSON – HOW THE RAINBOW WAS MADE

Answer the following questions:-

1. What did Nanabozho do one fine morning?

Ans: Nanabozho lived in a house beside the wide waterfall. One morning he looked out from the window of his house. There were plenty of flowers in his meadow. But he realized that all the flowers in his meadow were exactly the same off- white colour. He then decided that he should make a change.

2. What did Nanabozho find boring? What did he decide to do then?

Ans: Nanabozho found it boring to see all the flowers in his meadow the same off-white colour. He then thought that he should do something. He decided to make a change. He gathered up his paints and his paintbrushes and went out to the meadow. He began to paint the flowers in many different colours.

3. What did Nanabozho do to bring a change in his meadow?

Ans: Nanabozho sat down in the tall grass and arranged his red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet paint pots next to him. He painted the violets dark blue and the tiger lilies orange with brown dots. He made the roses red, pink and purple. He painted the pansies in every colour combination that he could think of. He painted every single daffodil bright yellow.

4. Describe what the two little blue birds were doing when Nanabozho was painting the meadow?

Ans: The two little blue birds were playing games with each other. The first little blue bird would chase his friend across the meadow one way. Then they would turn around to continue the game. The second blue bird would chase him back the other way. Each bird would chase the other across the sky in the brilliant sunshine.
