

1. Fill in the blanks:-

- a) A dog has a limited.....
- b) Every egg has an outer that protects the baby inside it.
- c) Some animals reproduce by laying and some give to young ones.
- d) The grow into adult dogs like their parents.
- e) The shell has tiny..... that allow..... to pass through.

2. Name the following:-

- a) The thick jelly- like substance inside the shell is called -
- b) The yellow portion within the albumen is called –
- c) The process by which some birds keep their eggs warm by sitting on them is known as –
- d) The yolk contains a developing baby called –
- e) The process by which animals produce young ones of their own kind is known as -

3. Write true or false:-

- a) The process by which animals produce young ones of their own kind is known as reproduction.
- b) The embryo inside the egg does not need warm conditions to develop.
- c) The stages of development from an embryo to an adult form is called life cycle.
- d) All animals reproduce by giving birth to their young ones.
- e) The tiny pores on the shell enable the baby to breathe inside the egg.

4. Answer in one or two words:-

- a) What protects the yolk and the embryo?
- b) What protects the baby inside an egg?
- c) Which part of an egg contains food for the developing baby?
- d) What is the developing baby called that grows in the yolk?

5. Draw the 'Structure of an Egg'