Answer the following questions:-

- 1. Why was George asked by his cousin to come in and relax? What did he do with the glass of water?

Ans: The narrator asked George to come in and relax as he knew that there was plenty of time. His intention was to stop George as the train that went to the place where the mental asylum was, left at eleven-fifteen. He requested George to wait inside till he gets ready. So George sat down and asked for a glass of water. But he promptly emptied it over a pot of ferns.

- 2. Why did the narrator dress hurriedly?

Ans: George had asked for a glass of water. Instead of drinking he promptly emptied it over a pot of ferns. Seeing this, the narrator got surprised and George replied that the pot of ferns looked thirsty. The narrator got anxious and wanted his cousin safe back at the mental hospital. He dressed hurriedly so that George does not practice his latest cuts on the narrator's cut glass decanter.

- 3. Where and how did the narrator and his cousin decide to reach their destination?

Ans: The narrator wanted his cousin safe back at the mental hospital. But George wanted to take part in Test Match. So they walked to the gate, arm in arm and took an auto rickshaw. The narrator whispered to the driver to take them to the railway station. But George in his loud voice shouted Feroz Shah Kotla, the famous cricket ground of Delhi. The narrator thought to himself that he would explain to the driver the need to go to the railway station as they went along.

4. Towards which direction was the auto heading? Why wasn't the narrator successful in taking the auto rickshaw to the railway station?

Ans: The auto was heading in the direction of Kotla. The narrator understood that the driver was taking them to Feroz Shah Kotla. He would repeatedly tell the driver to take them to the railway station. He wasn't successful in convincing the driver. Whenever he would instruct the driver to go towards the station, George would interrupt and ask the driver to go to the cricket stadium.
